Flow Chart<sup>1</sup> of the Final Round: Osterweis Tournament, Yale University, April 17, 2017

This House would abolish superdelegates.

The final round of Osterweis 2016 was between the AITE team of Stephanie Walsh and Dan Silverstein on Government and the AITE/St.Luke's team of Daniel Berger and Bill Memon in Opposition. The debate was won by the Government.

Format Key

I take notes on an 11" by 14" artist pad. The two pages below are formatted to print in landscape mode on  $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$  paper. The first page covers the four constructive speeches and the second page covers the rebuttal. The pages are intended to be arranged as follows, which is how my actual flow is arranged:

Note that the first page containing the constructive speeches always has arguments related to the Government contentions at the top, and those relating to the Opposition contentions at the bottom. This is not how the speeches may have been presented, in that often a speaker will deal with Opposition arguments prior to the Government. The "transcript" version of this chart presents the arguments in each speech as presented.

The chart uses "G1," "O2," etc. to refer to the Government first contention, the Opposition second contention and so forth. Points of Information are indicated by "POI:" and this marker, the question and the answer are in boldface.

&lt;sup>1</sup> Copyright 2016 Everett Rutan. This document may be freely copied for non-profit, educational purposes.

Prime Minister Constructive	Leader of the Opposition Constructive	Member of Government Constructive	Member of Opposition Constructive
<ol> <li>We interpret the motion in the obvious way, and will argue to eliminate superdelegates in the Democratic and Republican party conventions.</li> <li>Introduction</li> <li>Statement of the motion</li> <li>Two possible outcomes: superdelegates vote the same way as voters in the primaries, or they vote differently.</li> <li>G1<sup>2</sup>: Superdelegates follow public opinion         <ul> <li>a) Then they are useless, don't affect the outcome</li> <li>b) Harms the process by suggestion obstruction or confusion                 <ul></ul></li></ul></li></ol>	<ol> <li>Intro</li> <li>Opp then Gov</li> <li>G1: Opp'/s position is actually more democratic         <ul> <li>a) Superdelegates are consistent with what the Founding Fathers did</li> <li>POI: Did the Founding Fathers know about political parties? By the 1880's they knew</li> <li>b) If there is clearly a difference in candidates, loser should run separately                 <ul> <li>i) E.g. Clinton and Sanders, Sanders could be elected as independent</li> </ul> </li> </ul> </li> <li>4) G2: The party members who don't like the result can run independently</li> </ol>	<ol> <li>Intro         <ol> <li>G1: as we have noted, independent and third-party candidates are not effective</li> <li>e) G2: Swaying the vote is bad for our core democratic values</li></ol></li></ol>	<ol> <li>Intro</li> <li>Opp then Gov</li> <li>G1: Establishment candidates show common values         <ul> <li>a) They unify the party and get more general support</li> <li>G2: Superdelegates support more qualified candidates                 <ul></ul></li></ul></li></ol>
	<ol> <li>O1: Superdelegates fulfill the purpose of the primary to get the best candidate         <ul> <li>A party does not include all people</li> <li>Superdelegates are party leaders</li> <li>A candidate that doesn't like the result can start their own party</li> <li>This leads to best candidate for the party</li> <li>O2: Superdelegates prevent the rise of populism</li></ul></li></ol>	<ol> <li>Opp's main suggestion is for loser to leave and run as independent         <ul> <li>This is impractical as no third-party candidate has ever won.</li> <li>O1: Political parties should be driven by the people</li></ul></li></ol>	<ol> <li>O1: Purpose of party is to get a group of people with similar beliefs         <ul> <li>a) Prop up a candidate in the general election</li> <li>b) Average voters won't or can't analyze policy in detail</li> <li>c) Party superdelegates carry out set of shared values, do the hardwork of policy analysis</li> </ul> </li> <li>O2: Trump is xenophobic, biased and anti- feminist         <ul> <li>a) The majority can infringe on the minority's rights</li> <li>b) Superdelegates carry party's values, protect minorities</li> </ul> </li> </ol>

 $<sup>^2</sup>$  G1 is the first Government contention, O2 the second Opposition contention, and so forth. Final Round, Osterweis, April 17, 2016

Yes, if that is what the public decides.	establishment candidates indicate a problem? Yes. The Republicans have a xenophobic populist and Sondars plans would feil populist and Sanders plans would fail

Leader of Opposition Rebuttal	Prime Minister Rebuttal
1) What if a xenophobic candidate wins	1) Which sides position best represents the will of
<ul> <li>primaries?</li> <li>a) Gov says they should get the nomination</li> <li>b) This candidate would spew racism to the US and abroad</li> <li>c) This would be disasterous for policy</li> <li>2) Third parties are an option <ul> <li>a) Even if they fail to win, voters can still</li> </ul> </li> </ul>	<ul> <li>the people?</li> <li>Opp says we need most qualified candidate <ul> <li>a) G1: people and superdelegates agree, get same candidate</li> <li>b) G2: if superdelegate choice wins nomination, they won't be popular and will lose the election</li> </ul> </li> </ul>
<ul> <li>compare candidates</li> <li>b) They would have to know policies and politics to get party nomination</li> <li>c) E.g., in 2008 Obama won due to superdelegates</li> <li>3) Founding Fathers had similar ideas in mind</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>c) Or the party will split, as Opp recommends third-party run <ol> <li>Minority candidate wins the election</li> </ol> </li> <li>3) Best choice is to get rid of the superdelegates and have a clean primary process.</li> </ul>
superdelegates		